GENERAL INFORMATION FOR STUDENTS FOR CBCS COURSE

The MU is introducing Choice Based Credit System (CBCS) from academic session 2020-21. The students of the third Semester would be selecting one course of their choice outside their departments in the Semester starting from September / October 2020. By now most of the students have given their application through offline or online modes. Keeping in view the difficulties in getting signatures of HODs, it has been decided that students can submit their applications without the signatures of HOD through offline or online modes to the Department or departments where their wish to take up the CBCS course.

Generally, as the CBCS courses are outside their respective departments, most of the students might not be aware of the difficulties or perquisites or any special requirements needed to take up the CBCS courses. Students might have or may opt for more than one CBCS course so as to make final selection after seeing the contents of syllabus and the suitability of the course for them. In foreign Universities of Europe and USA, about one week period is given for students to sit in different courses and see the contents and judge the suitability of each course. This one week period is called “Shopping Week” in USA and Western Europe University. Keeping in view the fact that many MU students might not be knowing the contents of CBCS courses fully and also allowing them to judge their own suitability for the optional CBCS course, it has been decided that period from 28 September 2020 to 3 October 2020 would be given to students to looks at various optional courses on offer and then make their final choices by 5 PM on 3 October 2020. Since the MU is not holding offline classes and the students cannot judge the optional course suitability by attending classes, the students are advised to look at the syllabus of optional courses and consult the faculty members teaching these courses and also their colleague students from the concerned departments.

Students are again advised to submit their final selection to the HOD and the Faculty member of the CBCS course. The HODs of the concerned optional courses would make the final selection of students admitted in each optional course, the size of class and number of sections.
